

IN THIS ISSUE

The Down Side of Assimilation
by Elwood McQuaid10
Wanting to be like everyone else often comes with a price. And sometimes, as this article shows, it's too high to pay.

Why Christians Should Be Zionists
by Thomas C. Simcox.....14
Today Zionism has become a dirty word. Yet if any people should be Zionists, it should be Christians. Here's why.

Getting the Gist of J Street
by Steve Herzig18
A new movement is afoot to strip Israel of its Jewish identity. And, remarkably, the people propelling it are Jewish.

The Quantum Shift Toward Paganism
by Charles E. McCracken24
Eastern beliefs are infiltrating Christendom and moving it toward a one-world philosophy, the tenets of which may shock you.

Blessed Are the Intolerant
by Gary E. Gilley28
Wanting to be more "accepting" of the world, professing Christians are turning away from biblical truth. Here's a look at the sad downward spiral.

The late American revivalist Vance Havner had the gift of foresight when he warned us 25 years ago about the course of the church in America. "We are living," Havner said, "in the worst period of deception in history." He feared false teaching would fool many, including church leaders who would endorse a false gospel. Other good people, he said, unable to discern what is happening, will be afraid to oppose the teaching. This issue of Israel My Glory outlines the dimensions of some of the changes occurring in today's church and reveals the great need for discernment among God's people. There is, of course, much more also, including valuable insights into how these changes affect our relationship with Israel. It's a timely issue you'll want to share with others. Our cover is an aerial view of Kibbutz Ein Dor, established in 1948 (Duby Tal/Albatross/Israel Images).
