ABOUT THE ISSUE

While the world watches the missiles rain down on Israel from Lebanon and Gaza, the Jewish state again fights an all-out war.

It is a battle for survival. And yet, it is not, because Israel will survive whether or not Hezbollah and Hamas are totally destroyed. God guarantees so in His Word. As for us, this is a time when knowing the facts are an absolute necessity. That's why we set aside one issue each year to look at contemporary Israel. Here you'll learn the facts. Make sure you read our Israel in the News: Special Report. It's an eye-opener. Our cover photo shows an Israeli rescue worker trying to help a seriously wounded man from the wreckage of a Haifa building hit by a rocket fired from Lebanon. (Baz Ratner / AP Wide World Photos)

IN THIS ISSUE

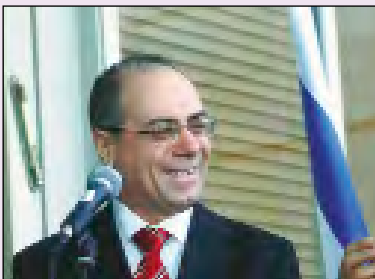

The Christian Thing to Do
by *Elwood McQuaid*10
Today's Christian Zionists love the Jewish people as Corrie ten Boom once did. And the World Council of Churches does not speak for us!

Dancing With the Devil
by *Craig L. Parshall*14
Like it or not, Hamas now controls the Palestinian Authority. Does this mean Israel must negotiate with terrorists? This lawyer says no.

To Build or Not to Build: Jerusalem's Housing Controversy
by *David Dolan*18
Concrete jungle or luxury high-rise? The million-dollar digs going up in Jerusalem mean different things to different people.

China and Israel: Inscrutable Relations
by *Elliot Jager*20
Which way does China swing when it comes to Israel? In the past, China has fully supported the Arabs. But it may be moving in another direction.

The Politics of Sacred Space
by *Randall Price*26
Speaking from firsthand experience, Dr. Price explains why archaeology and the Temple Mount will always take center stage in the Arab-Israeli conflict.
